

Cambridge Home + Garden Show.

The Cambridge Home + Garden Show makes its debut next month, bringing an abundance of design inspiration to help you create your dream home. Cambridge Edition is a proud media partner for this exciting new event, which takes place on 9 September at The Guildhall and will feature a host of talks and demos, plus free professional design consultations and a pop-up café.

The show is the brainchild of Jennifer Chong of Feioi, a Cambridge-based interior designer and project manager. “The Cambridge Home + Garden Show has been something I’ve been thinking about for a while and I’m so excited that my idea is coming to fruition,” she explains. “There are design events all over the country, particularly in London, and I couldn’t understand why we didn’t have one in Cambridge. There is so much creative talent here that needs to be celebrated and I know how much people enjoy gathering ideas for their home and garden. I’m delighted to be able to present this fantastic collection of businesses; supporting local independents is something I’m passionate about. I hope visitors will be inspired, pick up some valuable tips and discover something new.”

Stay tuned to the next issue of Cambridge Edition when we’ll be bringing you a full rundown of everything at the event. In the meantime register for a free ticket to the event and you’ll be entered into a prize draw to win some lovely goodies including a luxurious stay at the Quy Mill Hotel & Spa.
